Crushing demand for COVID-19 vaccines are so severe that Sharon Regional Medical System is logging 300 calls an hour from people clamoring to get the shot.

"We have a waiting list full of names that's 40 pages long," said a hospital representative who asked not to be identified. "We have people calling from Beaver County wanting to register with us."

With Pennsylvania in Phase 1A, the first level of four, of its COVID-19 vaccination rollout procedure, hospitals and pharmacies have begun accepting appointments for vaccinating people other than health-care workers and long-term care home residents and staff.

Senior citizens and people with high-risk medical conditions — including heart disease and type 2 diabetes — can now receive one of the two federally approved vaccines, from Pfizer-BioNTech or Moderna. However,

Gov.: State needs to do better

But federal government supply is biggest hurdle

By JOHN FINNERTY

HARRISBURG — Gov. Tom Wolf said Tuesday that the state must do a better job making COVID-19 vaccines available, but insisted the biggest hurdle is the lack of available vaccine doses.

Pennsylvania has administered 737,817 doses of COVID vaccine as of Tuesday -- with 473,449 people having received one dose and 132,184 people receiving both, said Acting Secretary of Health Alison Beam.

Tuesday's press conference was the first public appearance for Beam since she was named to succeed former Secretary of Health Dr. Rachel Levine, who has been appointed to join the Biden Administration as assistant secretary of health.

Wolf said that the state's efforts in getting the vaccine distributed across the state have been "in the middle of the pack" compared to other states, and added that he wants the state to do better.

"As we're ramping up. We've got about 1,000 locations set up to do the inoculations. They are relying on their phone systems. They are relying on their website. Some of them are great, some of them aren't up to

Man sentenced in Farrell gun fight

By MELISSA KLARIC
Herald Staff Writer

MERCER — A man involved in a June shooting outside a Farrell social club was sentenced Tuesday to time served.

Jonell Galen Goudy, 25, of 330 Shenango Blvd., Farrell, pleaded guilty Nov. 13 to aggravated assault, attempted homicide, prohibited possession of a firearm, carrying a firearm without a license and reckless endangerment charges were not prosecuted.

President Judge Robert G. Yeatts followed a sentencing agreement, approved by prosecutors, which called for Goudy to serve 187 days to 18 months jail time followed by 2 years probation. He was given credit for having served 187 days and freed Tuesday on parole.

A second man is accused of charges stemming from the gun fight June 27 outside the Farrell Sportsman's Club, 816 Emerson Ave.

For Golub, persistence pays off

Sharon native snags role in Denzel Washington flick

By MELISSA KLARIC
Herald Staff Writer

SHARON — Growing up in the Shenango Valley taught Bob Golub persistence. The Sharon native who had a role in the movie "Goodfellas" and on the FX network show "Baskets," says he will never quit trying to get his screenplay, titled "Mac," produced.

"Mac" is the story of Farrell basketball coaching legend Ed McCluskey and tells the story of Farrell's epic 1954 victory over a Philadelphia Overbrook High School team that included future NBA legend Wilt Chamberlain.

Golub

Before that happens though, Golub, an actor and comedian who now lives in West Hollywood, has a role in a new movie, titled "The Little Things." The movie, which stars Denzel Washington, premieres Friday in theaters and on HBOMax.

In the movie, Denzel Washington's character, a retired sheriff, tracks a serial killer.

Golub appreciates playing a role in a movie with star power.

"I'm blessed to be in the film with Denzel Washington," Golub said.

The movie was written and directed by John Lee
